Dear Parents,

Wow, the 100th day of school has come and gone! It was a great day of different activities! Here is a list of what we did; added a sticker to a school-wide poster, wore our crowns, wrote about our favorite thing so far in school, started reading 100 words with a partner, drew a 100 year old self-portrait, stamped 100 stamps in groups of 10, sorted M&M's in Mrs. Heithoff's room, worked with Cheerios and counting with Mrs. Moorberg, ate our 100th day snacks, sang several 100th day songs, did 100 jumping jacks with the school on the announcements, built a structure out of 100 cups, started a number hunt in the class, and heard a great story or two!

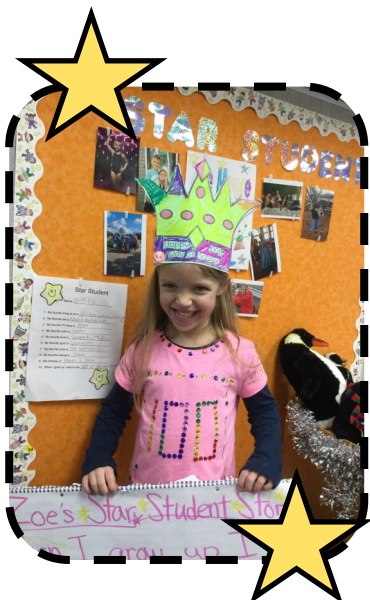

We also did a fun math tally partner game to 100 and wrote our name in 100 squares to see patterns for math. We rocked our math assessment on breaking numbers apart and did an excellent job on both the A-math and FAST reading tests for the district this week! We deserve a celebration! We filled our W chart and will celebrate that soon too! Whew! 100 days of school sure wears us out!

Ms. L has the Longest Laugh!

* We practiced opinion writing again with 2 reasons when we wrote about Ms. L in our journals. We learned how to read the double ll at the end of words.

Raising Canes has given us another chance to win a free chicken dinner! Just return homework bags with all the books read 3 times or more for 3 weeks in a row and your child will bring home a bookmark with the combo coupon! Update-21 of 23 kids have two weeks done and will get a coupon when books are returned Monday!
